The teachers are great - really. All the teachers I've had care and seem to have an emotional investment in kids passing. Unfortunately, the administration is so out of touch with students and staff that it makes it hard for the teachers to help students excel. The administration, instead of just trying to be down to earth with students, is always attempting the new hip or trendy school style that'll supposedly bring the school out of the dust and into one of the top schools in Colorado. This has really had the opposite effect, where the disconnect between administration and students has led to an atmosphere of general uncaring about graduating around the school. And despite the best efforts of teachers, the administration continues to drag down the school.

Arvada High School is like a second home to me. Even though people think Arvada High isn't the best school in the district to send their kids they're wrong. Arvada is one of the less cliché schools I've ever been to. "Jocks" don't just hang with "jocks" and "nerds" don't just hang with "nerds", the cheerleaders and the football players are even on the chess team. The staff and teachers love and care for all of their students and we have amazing teachers that support us and motivate us to try harder and harder! I wouldn't want to go to school anywhere else!

Arvada High School is mediocre as far as high school goes. The teachers are amazing and truly connect with students that put in time and effort, however, the academics and sports have a longstanding reputation for being terrible. The administration is ineffective, and clearly only show compassion for specific groups amongst the school. The diversity is great, but high school is high school, and cliques will remain loyal to their own cliques. The school overall isn't terrible, but it needs some major improvements. My experience was great because of the effort I put into my school work and sports.

Arvada High School overall is a fantastic school, in my opinion. Throughout the four years I attended, I witnessed not large scale bullying or harassment. This is huge in my book, since I grew up in schools where things like that ran rampant. It was nice studying and learning in a school that has a friendly environment, high standards for students, as well as great school and team spirit! I grew up a lot in that school, and I was sad to eventually leave it. But easily my favorite part about that school was the extremely friendly and helpful staff and teachers. A large majority of my all time favorite teachers teach or taught at that school, and something like that always helps when trying to reach your academic goals.
